MANY ENTRANTS IN STATE MEET

Antioch Students Will Compete in Music and Public Speaking at Normal May 6 and 7.

Prof. Lefroy Stark and his Township high school orchestra of eighteen members, accompanied by six other high school students, entered in the public speaking and solo contests, will journey to Normal May 6 to participate in the state final contests in public speaking and music, scheduled for May 6 and 7 at Normal university. This year the sectional meetings have been abandoned so the winners in the district meets will go to Normal for the finals.

The district contests were for high schools under 500 enrollment and the winners in these are to meet with the larger schools in the finals.

Many Entries From Antioch
Among the entries from the many schools are six from Antioch who will compete in the speaking and solo contests. In addition to the orchestra and glee club. The local entrants in the solo contests are Homer Tiffany, Virginia Hachmeister and Louise Simons, while Lillie Hawkins, Marion Willie and Gordon Martin will represent Antioch in the public speaking contests. With the boys' glee club and the local orchestra in the contests Antioch will present quite an imposing array of talent in the finals, and the work of the young people will be watched with interest by the entire community. It is hoped that success may crown the efforts of these talented girls and boys.

Chicago Man Killed as Car Plunges

John T. Buchanan Dead and Herman Lueck Seriously Injured in Accident Near Long Lake.

John T. Buchanan, 65, of Chicago, and Long Lake is dead, and his companion, Herman Lueck, 60, of Ingleside, is near death from serious injuries sustained Monday afternoon when the sedan in which they were riding skidded from the road, crashed through a railing and plunged eight feet into Squaw creek near Long Lake.

Buchanan's death was due to "head injuries and drowning," according to the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest held at the Fox Lake town hall late Tuesday. Lueck suffered a crushed chest when the machine went over the embankment, and he is said to be in a serious condition, but probably will recover.

Buchanan Drowned, Belief.
Buchanan was dead when his body was taken from the machine. His head was under water and he was slumped over the wheel of the car when Frank Blatherwick, Ingleside taxi driver, went to the rescue of the two men. Blatherwick was following the Buchanan machine and was the first to go to the rescue of the men. It is believed that Buchanan was hurled against the door of the car when the machine crashed into the railing and was rendered unconscious.

Lueck although seriously injured managed to keep his head above the water until rescued from the machine. The two men were returning to Ingleside from Round Lake at the time of the tragedy.

Besides a widow the deceased is survived by a daughter and a son.

116 MILES OF ROAD PLANNED

One hundred and sixteen miles of roads in Lake county are to be paved with concrete at an estimated cost of $3,430,000 out of the $100,000,000 bond issue money it was announced last week by R. M. Lobdell, acting county highway superintendent. The mammoth paving project will start this year and undoubtedly will require several years for completion. Lake county, Mr. Lobdell says, now has 140 miles of paved roads outside of cities, so will have 256 miles of roads when the new project is finished.

We are proud of you and will pull the strongest car possible for your success at DeKalb on April 1st and in the final contest at Normal on May 6th.

Ziegler Explains "Public Benefit"

Inquiry having been made relative to the amount of $9960.00 shown as a Public Benefit in the proposed improvement for Paving and drainage of Lake Street, I wish at this time to make some explanation in regard to this assessment. Lake Street is a part of Highway No. 59 (State aid road.) The State Highway Department now insists that the amount which they pay towards such improvement shall be shown as a Public Benefit in the assessment roll. This is done for bookkeeping purposes so that this amount in 10 installments will not show as a lien on the property along said improvement. This method is somewhat different from the assessment made four years ago when Fox River Road (Main Street) was paved. At that time the entire cost of the improvement amounting to $99,880 was confirmed by the County Court against all the property benefited. Some time later the State paid in 34.6 per cent of the whole assessment amounting to some $34,458 which amount was reduced on all installments levied. The so-called Public Benefit on Lake Street will not be paid by the taxpaying public but will be paid by the State as their share of said improvement in accordance with letter from the State Highway Department in which they agree to pay this amount. The property owners on Lake street pay all the balance of the cost the same as the property owners on Fox River Road. In the paving of Victoria and Harden streets (not state aid roads) the Board of Local Improvements indicated that a Public Benefit should be assessed on these streets. The amount assessed, $3388.20, is very moderate and was made according to the following conditions and estimates.

1st—Victoria street and Harden street not state aid roads.

2nd—It always proves that a paved street in a village has some general benefit to the entire community.

3rd—Payment of the cost of Street Intersections by the property owners along said improvement.

4th—Saving to the village of the cost of grading and maintaining streets during the 10 year period of this assessment.

The amounts shown in the proposed assessments on Lake street, Victoria and Harden streets are taken from the engineer's estimate and is the maximum amount that can be charged. The contracts for these improvements have not yet been let. The figures indicate that the cost now is considerably higher than four years ago when Fox River Road was paved.

The cost in the residential sections of the village for street now paved and the expected cost of streets to be paved as follows: Fox River road (state aid Highway) width of paving 31 feet, cost per foot, $4.49; Lake Street (State aid Highway) width of paving 31 feet, cost per foot, $5.878; Victoria and Harden streets (not state aid roads) width of paving, 26 feet, cost per foot, $7.497.

In fairness to all I am making this public statement and trust that same is understood.

W. F. ZIEGLER,

The person appointed by the President of the Board of Local Improvements to make the assessment.

Half of the customers who consumed the 84,000,000 gallons of ice cream manufactured in the United States last year asked for vanilla flavor, according to a report of the department of commerce.

ANTIOCH PALACE NEAR COMPLETE

Antioch and the rest of the world is waiting with great anticipation the grand opening on April 23, of the Antioch Palace, Richard Macek's wonder dance pavilion and recreation auditorium now nearing completion a mile south of Antioch on highway 21.

All who have seen the place during the past few weeks agree that it is correctly named—Antioch Palace—for indeed it is a palace. By far the largest and finest amusement place of the kind in all northern Illinois, its erection and the large investment involved has been the subject of comment far and wide. The building is the largest in the lakes region, being 125 feet by 150 feet. The floor space for dancing is 70x90 feet, ample space to accommodate 600 couples in comfort.

Billiards and Bowling.
The west portion of the building is given over to billiards and four regulation bowling alleys have been installed in the south side and are ready for use. In the east is wardrobe rooms for over a thousand guests, while the central space is to be used for the soda fountain and lunch counters. The soda fountain, the largest in the locality, is of beautiful Tennessee marble, was installed last week, and Dan Harris and Company, who have leased the concession rights for fountain and lunch service, are busy installing fixtures to accommodate the thousands who will attend the opening night.

Finishing Interior.
This week the last of the interior finishing is being done. The floor is being sanded and waxed, the latest model ticket vending machines are being installed and a Knaube concert grand piano is expected to arrive. Interior lighting effects are beautiful. Concrete pillars supporting ten powerful flood lights will illuminate the highway and the front of the auditorium and numerous 1000-watt flood lights will light the six-acre parking space. Many carloads of crushed stone are being placed on the grounds.

Fine Orchestra for Opening.
Guests at the Antioch Palace on the opening night may expect to hear one of the finest orchestras in the country, is the assurance given by the management, and the selection will be announced in the near future.

CAR TURNED OVER— DRIVER UNINJURED

An almost miraculous escape from serious or possibly fatal injury, was the experience of Edward Heebe, mechanic at the Antioch Sales and Service company, Tuesday evening when the large Studebaker car he was driving home to Waukegan, left the road when he passed another car about a mile south of Antioch and turned over in the ditch near the Thomas Coole farm. The accident occurred about 5:30 and after being removed from the wreck, Mr. Heebe had the car towed back to the garage here and after making some repairs started for home again. His escape without a scratch was remarkable.

BUSINESS CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

Members in good standing are eligible to vote and hold office. A full attendance is desired at this meeting.

LOCAL QUINTET WINS PRAISE AT TOURNEY

Basketball Team Cops Opener from University High But Lose to Tremont in Semi-Finals.

Antioch basketball fans were almost wild with joy last Thursday night when the news was flashed here that the crack local high school team had defeated the fast University High a Bloomington in their opening clash in the Wesleyan tournament where sixteen of the state's best teams met in an elimination contest.

The following story of the game with comment is reprinted from the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph of Friday:

The U. High defeat by Antioch was quite an upset in the minds of local followers of the indoor sport, who, although they were conscious of the strength of the northern Illinois team, optimistically expected the Johnsonmen to triumph.

Antioch 22; U. High 14.
Antioch came and Antioch conquered. That just starts to tell of the great accomplishment of these rangy boys from the North. Coupling snappy hook passes with some of the neatest basket slinging local fans have seen for some time, Antioch downed the great little U. High quintet 22 to 14, after leading throughout the game.

Captain Nixon, Spicer, and Schwenk form an offensive combination that is the sensation of the tournament and were the reason for U. High's downfall. U. High was playing without the services of their crack guard Jack Penrith, who was out on account of illness, and this materially effected their play.

Antioch Grabs Lead.

Antioch grabbed an early lead and held it at the quarter 4 to 3. Nixon and Schwenk opened up in the second quarter to show the fans some snappy basketball, and while Dunk and Kingery were counting long baskets, the northerners scored three to let them lead at half time 10 to 7. Captain Kingery put U. High back in the running at the start of the second half with another long one making the score 10 to 9. However, baskets by Schwenk and Nixon let Antioch draw away 14 to 9. Dunk got a free throw but Nixon followed in for a field goal for Antioch. U. High trailed at the third quarter 14 to 10. A spirited rally by Antioch featuring the great under the basket work of Spicer, let them sew the game up.

U. High put up a great battle without their regular guard, Jack Penrith, but Antioch was too strong for them. Presenting one of the most colorful attacks ever seen on the Memorial gym floor, Antioch in view of their great showing last night, has branded themselves as one of the leading contenders for the tournament title.

"The loss of U. High to Antioch is regrettable from the local point of view, but not altogether a complete surprise. Antioch, in the first place, has a wonderful team, as anyone who saw them work last night will admit. Without attempting to make any excuses for the defeated Green and Gold quintet, however—and, by the way, it should be remarked that the Johnsonmen need no excuses for their season's play—the U. High boys have been thru an intense strain during the district and sectional meets the last two week-ends, and it is not surprising that they should "crack" some time. Even the best of them get beat, and U. High was no exception.

"Worth Coming Miles to See."

"The play of the Antioch high school team, conquerors of U. High last night, was a revelation to the

SHOWS HOW BAND PROPOSAL WORKS

People of DeKalb Well Pleased With Municipal Band Accomplishments.

How the municipal band proposal, which is to be voted on here at the April election, works out in real practice is shown in the experience of the DeKalb, Ill., community. DeKalb was the first Illinois municipality to adopt the two-mill band levy after the Illinois Legislature passed the municipal band bill in 1925, which permits villages and cities in the state to levy a small tax for band purposes.

Organized during the Spanish-American War as the Third Regiment Band, the DeKalb musical organization held a notable place in the community for many years. Money for its support was raised by popular subscription, and an additional $600 was voted annually for the band by the city council. But, as is usual in such cases, the method was found unsatisfactory, and early in 1925 the citizens of DeKalb went to the polls and voted to take advantage of the state law to build up and maintain a band.

DeKalb realizes about $5000 a year for its municipal band, and the expenditure of this money is one of the duties of the band board. A highly trained leader, J. W. Jeffers, employed on a part time basis, directs the band players who now number 35. A regular feature of the band activity is the open air concerts which are given every Tuesday evening during the summer at the city park. A city auditorium for DeKalb is now being planned which, when completed, will allow the band also to give performances indoors during the cold weather season.

City officials generally applaud the results of the new band arrangements. Mayor J. H. Lindstrom says that it takes music out of the charity class and places it on a self-sustaining basis, and that a community adopting this method stamps itself as progressive. G. N. Blackman, DeKalb city clerk, says the plan is working out satisfactorily and that it meets with the entire approval of the people.

LADIES' GUILD MEETING

The Ladies' Guild will hold an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. Shiley on Wednesday, April 6. Fine dinner. Mrs. Kettelhut and Mrs. Shiley, entertainers. Everybody welcome. Good quilters, bring your thimble and scissors and we will see they get busy.

local basketball fans. The boys from the northern border of the state did everything imaginable with the ball, hooked passes, dribbled, faked, and performed other tricks that made the basketball experts sit up and take notice. Captain Nixon, of the Antioch team, is one of the cleverest as well as one of the fastest players in the tournament. Nixon is short and heavy, in marked contrast to his two offensive mates who stand over six feet and are built accordingly. Spicer and Schwenk are both artists with a basketball, and the way they carry the ball down the floor and end up with a dash for the basket is worth coming miles to see."

Lose to Tremont.

Showing a decided reversal of form Friday night the locals were defeated by Tremont, 23 to 7. Tremont was defeated by Canton in the Championship game, 13 to 10. Anyway the boys made a fine showing and might have copied the championship had they kept up their form. But, as the Pantagraph says, the best of them get beat.

TOWNSHIP ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

B. F. Naber, for Supervisor, is Lone Candidate—Road Improvement Measure Offered for Approval of Voters.

Indications are that the annual township election, scheduled for next Tuesday will be a very quiet affair as compared with previous elections when several places on the town ticket were contested. On the ballot to be voted next Tuesday the name of B. F. Naber for supervisor appears as the lone candidate, and it seems that Mr. Naber will have clear sailing for re-election to the office he has held so satisfactorily. He is now serving on several important county committees and is thoroughly conversant with the duties of his office and the affairs of the county at large.

Question of Public Policy.

Another ballot carrying a question of public policy will be submitted to the voters next Tuesday, the question of levying a special gravel tax not exceeding 36 cents on each $100 assessed valuation, including railroads, for three years, for the purpose of improving highways of Antioch township, the roads involved being the ones known as the Minto road, the Pierce-Webb road and the Bolin road. It does not seem possible that anyone who has traveled the roads of the township during the past few weeks can look with disfavor upon the proposition of road improvement. That the measure will carry there seems little doubt.

Kenosha Men Seek Location For Laundry

Antioch may have a laundry. Wm. Davis and H. L. Thompson, experienced laundriesmen, of Kenosha, are said to be considering the town as a favorable location to establish themselves in business.

There is a great volume of laundry business in this locality and a good home laundry would not be a gamble, say those who have seen the start of many a prosperous business in this town.

The Kenosha men are being given every encouragement.

ANTIOCH CAFE TRANSFORMED

The popular Antioch Cafe looks like new. The whole place has been repainted and redecorated and many changes have been made in the interior arrangement during the past few weeks. The south room of the establishment is used for the lunch counter while the entire north room is given over to table service, for both fountain and lunch patrons. The entire front of the room has been re-arranged and a new cashier's booth has been installed. Seemingly art panels adorn the walls making the place very attractive.

Dan Harris and his business associates deserve commendation for their brightening-up efforts, and the work of Hirt and Felter, decorators in charge, has been pronounced first-class by all who have visited the "new" Antioch Cafe.

Three trucks collided on the paving east of Bullen's bridge Monday morning. The Ward Bread wagon from Milwaukee in trying to cut in ahead of the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company truck from Wilmot, found he had too narrow a space and was going too fast to stop and crashed into a lumber truck from Lake Geneva that was coming from the west. The radiator of this truck was badly damaged and the force of the collision threw the Ward truck over onto the Electric Company truck. The last car was not damaged, or any of its occupants, but the driver of the Ward Co. car was cut around the head and hands and his ear was badly damaged.

Next Sunday we will have the opportunity of seeing that great picture entitled "Martin Luther His Life and Time." This is a great reel picture on the Protestant Reformation.

It has been stated that its chief feature is its educational and historical appeal. However it is also very dramatic and entertaining. In Peoria, Ill., 1700 hundred people saw this picture and several hundred were turned away. When motion pictures are used in the interest of education, science, and religion they become a mighty power for good. This picture is free, but an offering will be taken to defray the expense of bringing this picture to Lake Villa.

SURPRISED ON CRYSTAL WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Twelve couples of the younger set met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Krali, Monday evening to surprise Mr. and Mrs. S. Hoyer Nelson on the occasion of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. As the guests arrived they were ushered into darkened rooms at the Krali home where the honored couple had been invited to spend the evening and where they were greeted in manner they will never forget.

With Mr. Krali as master of ceremonies, many interesting games and contests made a very pleasant evening for all present. The ladies scored a close but well earned victory over the men in an indoor baseball game, after which the ladies greatly enjoyed the ludicrous and somewhat clumsy efforts of the men in a jog-jogging contest. Other games were played until a late hour when lunch was served. Then a full story of events of fifteen years ago was demanded of the bride and groom, the questioners having a good time but getting little information for their efforts. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson were recipients of handsome presents befitting their crystal anniversary.

The guests departed at a late hour, voting Mr. and Mrs. Krali real entertainers and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Nelson many happy returns of the day. Guests, other than those mentioned, were: Mr. and Mrs. Abt, Mr. and Mrs. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Weizel, Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston, Mr. and Mrs. Petty, Mr. and Mrs. Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Dickey and Mr. and Mrs. Macek.

Wednesday evening Testimony meeting at 8 o'clock. A reading room maintained at this address is open Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Methodist Notes

The lecture of Dr. Schurman at the church last Sunday evening was a revelation to the folks who attended. Said one, "I never knew that such conditions existed in America." Thank God for the work of the Christian church said another, and so the talk ran at the close of the service. Dr. Schurman has given more than ten years to the work in the slums of Chicago and spoke as one in authority.

The evening service of next week, April 3rd, will be given over to the High School group in recognition of their good work in the various fields of contest entered into during the past season. The groups represented will include the basketball players, the choral groups as well as the orators and the orchestra. Antioch is proud of the wonderful record made by our young people and we hope a goodly number will come out to honor them. The general public is invited.

The Sunday morning services will again center around the general theme of the Lenten season, dealing with great Christian principles of life which can be taught only through the message from the pulpit. Come and learn the way of life. The pupils of the Sunday school will gather in the church for the monthly party which will be in the nature of an April fools day party. The games will commence promptly at seven o'clock and continue until nine when a luncheon will be served and the young folks dismissed at nine thirty. Parents are invited to attend should they so desire.

'St. Ignace' Church Notes

Episcopal

Kalendar—6th, Sunday in Lent—Passion Sunday.
7:30—Holy Communion.
9:30—Church School.
10:30—Morning Prayer and Sermon.

The Holy Communion will be celebrated next Sunday morning at 7:30 instead of 8:00 as formerly. This will enable those who would spend the day away from home or those who must wait the influx of summer friends and dinners of fellowship to pay their respects to the Lord God of Hosts before beginning the busy day of modern rest. The Church claims that she holds the keys to the true enjoyment of life and eternal life. She has exactly what most people want who they don't know it or take advantage of it. For one to be loyal to the great ideals of life is difficult unless we seek inspiration in the Church. Easter is April the 17th. Plan to attend one of the services of worship on that day and lift your hearts up unto the Lord and ask a blessing.

Mr. Dixon will have as his sermon topic "The Passion of Christ." Is your heart filled with joy and love? Do you have a sense of peace of mind and freedom from worry? "Come unto Me, all ye that travail and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you."

You are always welcome at God's Church.

"HIGH BALL" LAUDS MOTOR COACH OPERATORS

"Friends of Howard Johnson will be surprised to learn that he has finally succumbed to his innate desire for art as he has become a partner of Mr. Tronson, photographer, of Antioch. We are all pleased to know that Howard has decided to encourage this fine trait of his and wish him every success in his new venture."

The same issue of "The Highball" carried a picture of C. H. Dickhaut and the following comment:
"Operator Dickhaut has built up an unusual clientele out on his Warren Township High School run and he must be fairly popular with his school children passengers with his wouldn't have asked him to assume the above posture in front of his coach. Some of the kids can be seen peering through the windshield, taking in the whole picture-taking procedure. The photo was sent in by Lester Hatton, Motor Coach Department correspondent at the Waukegan Garage."

UNCLE JOE MILKER SAYS

Uncle Joe Milker says: "He likes dairy farming but that he does not like the returns." Some way or other Uncle Joe says: "The dealer seems to get all the profit there is," and Uncle Joe is of the opinion that the dealer not only gets all the profits, but that he also gets much of the cost of production.

The way Uncle Joe figures it out is that, do his best, he cannot get back what he puts into the production of his milk.

Uncle Joe is not one of these slipshod farmers. Uncle Joe has as fine a herd of dairy cows as anyone who makes milk for Chicago. But, with all that he cannot make it pay.

Uncle Joe says: That he read in the papers that the drivers are going after the dealers for another $5.00 a week raise and he thinks perhaps these drivers have more brains than the dairy farmers. For they get together in an airtight organization, then they instruct their officers to go to it and get that raise. "Mind you," says Uncle Joe, "they first get this airtight organization, then they do something."

Uncle Joe says if the dairymen would do things the way these drivers do, they (the dairymen) could "talk turkey" to these same dealers and get just as good a hearing as the drivers do.

We asked Uncle Joe what he thought the milk producer ought to get for his milk. "Well," he replied, "the dealers is getting one and a half times as much as we get, for delivering the milk after we have turned it over to him, and he does nothing but handle it and pay the transportation for getting it into the city."

While we furnish the land, buildings, equipment, horses, tractors, plant, cultivate and harvest the crops. Have an investment of three to six thousand dollars in a dairy herd and give our time and that of hired help, all for the measly sum of 5 and 3 tenths cents a quart. These dealers get one and one-half times as much just for the handling of the product."

Coming back to your question said Uncle Joe: "It is possible that the dealer should have as much and maybe a little more for handling it, as he has to pay freights, etc., but one and a half times is too much."

You ask, said Uncle Joe, what I think the producer should get. I'll tell you what I think. "The producer would get somewhere near the right part of what the consumer pays if he were getting seven cents a quart in the country. The fight then would be between the dealer and the consumer." "If the dealer must have seven and one-half or eight cents for handling, the consumer might then be forced to pay fifteen cents for his milk."

Uncle Joe says: "It beats all, the way the dairy farmers hang off and will not get together in an organization where they could do something." He says: "That if there ever was a time when the dairy farmer, and in fact every sort of farmer, needs an airtight organization, it is just now." "Why men do not see this," he says, "is a puzzle to me."

We like Uncle Joe's reasoning especially that about the drivers, when he says: "If the dairymen had an airtight organization they could then go out and get some of what justly belongs to them." Uncle Joe seems to think that the drivers have an ideal form of an organization, and they have: But they would have nothing on us if we would only go to it and perfect our Association.

million sticks a day and produces 65 per cent of all the gum "chewed" in the world.

ALFALFA WILL CUT COUNTY'S FEED BILL

The $682,019 spent annually by Lake County farmers, as part of Illinois' $32,874,000 yearly feed bill, can be reduced to a mere fraction of that amount if the farmers in this county will plant alfalfa this spring, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

The average farm in this section has only a little more than an acre in alfalfa and more than eight acres in less profitable forage crops. Alfalfa is yielding 2.2 tons to the acre, the others only 1.1 tons. Data compiled by the Institutes chemists show that one acre of alfalfa produces as much protein as three acres of clover or nine acres of timothy.

The scarcity of farm produced protein is costing Illinois farmers millions of dollars a year. Even after piling on every cost item such as labor, fertilizer, seed, taxes and interest on the land, it has been found that by growing alfalfa protein can be "produced at home" for one-third its cost in certain purchased feeds. It was the striking increase in profits on average farms growing alfalfa which led the Institute to undertake the establishment of 10,000 Acre Alfalfa Clubs throughout the Mississippi Valley, in co-operation with leading farmers, bankers and business men. The Institute's experts estimate that one of these clubs increases the returns from the farms in the community where it is established by $300,000.

The LEADING LADY

by GERALDINE BONNER

Copyright by the BOBBY-MERRILL CO.

PROLOGUE. While despondent over the enforced hiding of her fiancé, Jim Dallas, player in self defense of Hamer Parkinson, member of an influential family, Sybil Saunders, popular actress, is engaged to play Viola in a charity performance of "Twelfth Night" on Gull Island, on the Maine coast. In the company are Sybil's bosom friend, Anne Tracy, Anne's brother, Joe, young wrestler, and Aleck Stokes, an actor lauded with Sybil.

CHAPTER I.—After the play, which is a big hit, Wally Shine, official photographer, learns something of the jealousy existing in the company.

CHAPTER II.—Hugh Bassett, director of the play, and Anne Tracy's fiancé, tells Joe he has heard he is spying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER III.—Joe Tracy is arranging for a vacation trip. To Anne he betrays his enmity toward Sybil. Stokes tells Sybil he has news of Jim Dallas, and to secure privacy they arrange to meet in a small summer house.

CHAPTER IV.—The sound of a pistol shot startles the assembled company investigation, who he has heard he is spying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER V.—Flora Stokes tells Bassett she saw Sybil shot but did not see her murderer. Bassett notifies the sheriff, Abel Williams. He arrives with Rawson, district attorney, and a man called Patrick. All the company is accounted for, with the exception of Joe Tracy, presumably on his trip. Flora gives her evidence, and the authorities arrange so that no one can leave the island.

CHAPTER VI.—Discussing the tragedy with Rawson and Bassett, Williams voices the opinion that Flora Stokes is the guilty person, the deed being actuated by jealousy. While they are talking, the sound of a crash in the living room makes them hasten there.

CHAPTER VII.—Anne Tracy, shocked at her friend's awful death, is also uneasy about Joe. Remembering his rage against Sybil, and realizing she is not pure he left to escape. Her imagination pictures him as Sybil's murderer, and hiding in the house, the upper story of which is unoccupied. Seeking him to inform him of the close watch kept, she descends to the living room. There she duly sees Joe and warns him not to try to escape. He disappears and in her agitation she knocks over a lamp. She tells the three men she came downstairs for a book, and her explanation is accepted.

CHAPTER VIII.—In the summer house evidence is found that Sybil had been there, and knowing of Stokes' infatuation, Rawson suspects him.

CHAPTER IX

Bassett was detailed to find Stokes and bring him to the library. A summons from the director would have an air of informality which might put Stokes off his guard.

Bassett found Flora and Sybil on the balcony and heard that Stokes had gone to his room to try to get some sleep. He knocked on the door and to a creak "Come in" entered to find Stokes lying on the bed. He rose quickly, exhibiting the same anxiety his wife had shown earlier in the day. "Of course," he said, "I'm ready to come whenever they want me. In fact I've been lying here expecting it, going back over last evening, trying to think of anything I may have overlooked that might help them."

There was a wilding brusqueness in his manner, an almost hearty readiness to do what was asked of him that seemed not quite genuine, adopted, perhaps, to hide the natural nervousness of a person in his position. Seated in an easy chair before the two men, Bassett back of them by the window, noticed that his hands were restless, smoothing and pulling at his clothes, settling his tie. Despite his disquiet he assumed an attitude of expectant attention, gravely awaiting their will, his eyes glancing from one to the other. He might readily have been a gully man primed for attack, or an innocent one shaken by the untoward circumstances in which he found himself.

Rawson's manner was friendly and reassuring. They wanted to get all possible information on the movements of the company the evening before. They would like to know just what he had done from the time he entered the house to change his clothes to the time when he had heard the shot.

He answered promptly with brief, no-nonsense directness. Went to his room, changed his clothes, laid on the bed, resting for a while, then sat on the balcony reading the paper.

While he was sitting there Miss Saunders must have passed the end of the balcony by the path that led to the Point.

She must have, but he had not seen her, being occupied with his paper.

Had he while in the house seen Miss Saunders or heard her voice?

He had not. He had no idea she had come in.

Had he seen his wife?

"My wife? Yes, I saw her for a moment. In the hall when I came out of our room after dressing."

"She said nothing to you about Miss Saunders being in the house?"

"Why no, she didn't know it. We didn't mention Miss Saunders at all."

"Just Leave Our Business to Us, Mr. Stokes."

son quietly, "where you get that. We haven't made out anything yet."

"Oh, I can see. We were the only people outside the house—that's enough to build a theory on. And motives—who had a motive? That's the way you go to work. Find a motive. Fit someone to it. My wife had a motive, that's sufficient. Don't ask what kind of woman she is, don't look any further, you have to get someone and she's the easiest."

"Mr. Stokes, if you'd take this calmly—"

"Calmly? Seeing what you think and where you're trying to land us? But just let me ask you something. Do you happen to remember there were five hundred people on the island that afternoon? Any kind of person could have been here on any kind of errand."

Rawson answered with a slight show of impatience: "Just leave our business to us, Mr. Stokes. You're here to answer questions."

"Oh, that's plain—questions all pointing one way. But there were other people on the island besides that crowd—besides us—who might have had a motive. Isn't anger a motive?" "Anger!" ejaculated Williams. "Where does that come in?" "Here, on Gull Island. Oh, we've had more than jealousy. Rage and spite will go as far. Take your eyes off my wife and me for a moment—look somewhere else."

Rawson's face showed no surprise. Blankly inscrutable, but Williams wheeled in his chair and turned an expression of startled inquiry on Bassett. Bassett, in his turn, was staring in astonishment at Stokes.

"What are you talking about?" he said. "Rage and spite—whom do you mean?"

"I mean Joe Tracy," was the answer.

"Joe Tracy!" exclaimed Williams, looking vaguely about in a baffled searching of memory. "Who's he?" "Good God, Aleck!" Bassett made a step forward: "Get a hold on yourself—think of what you're saying. He wasn't here, he'd left the island before that."

Stokes paid no attention but went on, glaring into Rawson's expressionless face.

"A d-d devil of a boy with a record. Ask him," he pointed to Bassett, "ask any of them what kind he was and how he acted here. It isn't I alone that saw it. Yesterday morning at the rehearsal he'd have struck her if Bassett hadn't interfered. What was the matter—I don't know. I don't pretend to know everything, but I know rage and hate when I see them."

"Aleck, you're crazy," Bassett's voice was raised in exasperated insistence: "He'd gone."

"Couldn't he come back? Aren't there bonds to be filed at Hayworth?" He turned to Rawson, "I don't accuse him, I'm not like you, I don't jump at conclusions, point and say, 'There's the murderer!' But I want a square deal and I won't get it till you've looked up Joe Tracy. Call your dogs back from the scent they're on and put them on his. Justice—that's all I ask for—justice for my wife. For myself—" He stopped. His excitement seemed suddenly to die. He looked old and weary, his body relaxed, the fire in his sunken eyes extinguished in a profound gloom.

"It doesn't matter what happens to me. I've thrown everything away—and Sybil's dead."

There was a slight pause. Rawson broke it, clearing his throat and rising from his chair.

"That's enough for the time being, Mr. Stokes. You can go now, if you want you'll cut on you later!"

Without a word Stokes turned and left the room. When the door had closed on him Bassett said:

"He's out of his mind—Joe Tracy—when he knows he isn't here."

Williams gave a nervous shrug:

"Oh, pshaw, what's the matter with him's easy to size up. Breaking down, losing his nerve. Whether he knows his wife did it or not he sees everything points there and he's just laying hold of anything to mark time. They go like that—I've seen 'em before."

Rawson, who had been standing with his hands deep in his pockets and his eyes fixed on the floor, moved to the chair.

"Let's hear about this boy, Mr. Bassett—all this anger and hate business, he's been buzzing round."

He sat down and lit a cigar. Through the smoke he watched Bassett with a narrowed glance as the director unfolded the story of Joe, the quarrel and Sybil's accusation.

When it was over Rawson knocked the ash from his cigar, meditatively looking at the crumbling gray heap:

"Are you under the impression, Mr. Bassett, that her story was true—that the boy had been spying on her?"

"I don't know. Of course she was in a high-keyed emotional state that might engender unjust suspicions. On the other hand you couldn't trust his word, and there was big money at stake."

"And when you returned to New York you would have found it out."

"Yes, I told him that."

"And he would have realized that it would go hard with him, where you were concerned, and with the rest of the profession?"

"Yes, he'd know. She was very popular and there was a general sympathy for her."

Williams stretched and rose from his chair:

"Well, it's all right to gather up everything, but it doesn't get us any further. If the boy'd been here, seeing what he was and how he felt, there might be something in it. But as he got out before the shooting it leaves us just where we were before. What do you think about going up and looking over that top story—routine business we ought to get through."

"Not now," Rawson moved to the door. "I'm going across to the mainland."

"Mind—what's that for?"

"Look up some things—that boy's movements, for one. I'll take Patrick and the launch and send him right back. Come down to the dock with me, Mr. Bassett, and tell me which way Tracy was going."

Bassett went with him feeling for the first time that he could give information with the tranquillizing assurance it would react on nobody. When he left Rawson at the dock he went to look for Anne.

Much of the powder used in the War of 1812 contained saltpeter taken from the Mammoth cave, Kentucky. Wheel tracks of ox-drawn vehicles are still plainly visible in the cave, says the Dearborn Independent.

Forty-Eight

Hour Milk

Milk hauled in glass lined railroad tank cars and glass lined truck tanks, meaning 48 hour old milk to the consumer. While the old method of bottling in the country meant 24 hour old milk.

The large distribution built up their mammoth business from the slogans: "Bottled in the country," "From cow to consumer," "Twenty-four hour milk" and other slogans of like type.

When Milk is gathered into receiving stations, weighed, cooled and handled, only for loading into tank-cars and trucks and then shipped or hauled to the city to be processed, rather than processed and bottled at the country plant or receiving station, it means that, that same milk must needs be held 24 hours longer than the milk bottled in the country, which is already for the consumer when it reaches the City.

Some may say that this can make very little difference. "Milk is milk." Milk is not always milk. The longer milk is held after being drawn from the cow, the less it fills the qualification of being milk.

We often hear this expression from city people who, when in the country, have milk served to them fresh from the cow, and which has not passed through this everlasting processing and holding for 24, 28, or 72 hours. "Why this does not taste like what we get from our milkman." "Do you put cream into it?" "Give me some more." "This is milk," and many other expressions much the same. Why? Because this is milk which has not been held for the major part of a week after being drawn from the cow.

We are given to understand that there is an ordinance in the City of Chicago requiring that all bottle caps show the date when the milk in that particular bottle was bottled. This does not help matters. Milk is not milk after it has been hauled and hammered over the country, 6, 8, 10 and 40 thousands pounds of it in large tanks and then allowed to stand in some city plant for a day or two.

It is just a white fluid and much of the time it looks as though the washerwoman's bluing bottle must have fallen into the tank.

Milk drawn from the cow today, bottled at the country plant today and left at the back door of the consumer before daylight tomorrow morning comes the nearest to being like the milk city people go into ecstasies over when they get a drink of real milk out on the farm.

Nash 6-cylinder, 7-bearing performance costs little, if any, more than 4-cylinder performance.

Full force-lead lubrication; Nash mechanical 4-wheel brakes, with front wheel brakes totally enclosed. Double-beam headlights. Automatic windshield cleaner; Rear-view mirror; Gasoline gauge on instrument board.

5 Budd-Michelin steel disc wheels; Alemite chassis lubrication, instead of old-fashioned grease cups.

Air cleaner and oil filter to seal the engine; steering gear especially engineered for balloon tires.

And, in closed car bodies, genuine hardwood frames with rounded rear roofs like the costliest custom cars.
